GERSH. MARTIN, PROPRIETOR.

Galesburg, Ill., July 14 1890.

To the Director of the U.S. Mint.

In this discussion of the "Silver Question", I wish to learn one point definitely and for certain. When the owner of gold brings it to the mint, who gets the benefit of the 10 per cent alloy, and who foots the cost of it? The gold owner brings his bullion fine, but the coin he gets is only 9-10ths fine. In all this hellabaloo about silver, the quarrel is who shall have the benefit of the "seignorage", the owner of the silver, or the mint or government.

I know there is "free coinage" of gold, but who gets the seignorage? What is the rule in regard to gold? A plain answer will oblige a citizen sovereign, who may thereby help to enlighten his fellow citizens and sovereigns

Yours truly Gersh. Martin

Galesburg, Ill, July 14, 1890

To the Director of the U.S. Mint,

In this discussion of the "Silver Question", I wish to learn one point definitely and for certain. When the owner of gold brings it to the mint, who gets the benefit of the 10 percent alloy, and who foots the cost of it? The gold owner brings his bullion fine, but the coin he gets is only 9-10ths fine. In all this hullabaloo about silver, the quarrel is who shall have the benefit of the "seigniorage", the owner of the silver, or the mint or government.

I know there is "free coinage" of gold, but who gets the seigniorage? What is the rule in regards to gold? A plain answer will oblige a citizen sovereign, who may thereby have to enlighten his fellow citizens and sovereign.

Your truly, Gersh. Martin
